Q2. One fine morning, when the sky began to get dark, Little Worm peeped out of his hole. He looked up, saw the clouds becoming bigger, and knew just then that it was going to rain. Rainy days were his favourite days. Little Worm was always ready for a rainy day. He pulled out his rain coat and put it on. He looked all over for his cap but couldn't find it. So he picked up his umbrella and came out of his home. Just then he felt a drop of water on his head. Little Worm's face brightened up. Then he felt a few more drops and then many more. Soon it was pouring. And Little Worm's heart was filled with glee.

Little Worm saw his friend Big Worm approaching Big Worm did not have a raincoat on or an umbrella. Little Worm went up to him and asked, "Big Worm, are you having fun in the rain?" "Sure I am," replied Big Worm, "and you can join in my fun. Toss out your raincoat and umbrella and enjoy the rain." Little Worm did just that and felt the raindrops all over him.
